

MADISON URGED TO HAVE GENEROUS PART

Committee Organizes To Have This Community Represented In Memorial To Heroes

The nucleus of an organization in Madison county to secure a good sum here toward the Memorial Building at State University in honor of the boys who gave their lives as a supreme sacrifice in the war, was effected here in Richmond Thursday. Members of the organization committee were Messrs. J. Howard Payne, D. H. Starns, Wren J. Grinstead, and Reuben Pearlman. All who are interested in making this splendid testimonial to the heroes of the war a success will meet Monday, at which time formal organization will be effected. Mr. Pearlman, who has charge of the publicity work, in talking with the Daily Register, told of the movement, its aims and purposes as follows:

In the European War, 2,726 Kentuckians, both men and women, gave their lives in the various pursuits of that tragic enterprise that humanity might be free; that autocracy might not again menace the race and the world might be a better place in which to live.

The record of Kentucky's part in that momentous struggle adds a new and luminous page to the history, not only of the Commonwealth, but of the nation—a page in which the story of her priceless sacrifice, the courage of her immortal sons, the patriotism of her daughters, will be a source of inspiration and pride throughout all the years to come. Of that magnificent army of men who turned their faces, when duty called, toward the battle fronts of Europe, that 2700 did not return, is inspiring testimonial to their historic valor in defense of the flag and the principles of free government for which their forefathers fought; is additional proof, indeed that in the Anglo-Saxon veins of Kentucky's sons and daughters still courses the blood of a stock that holds life cheap when slavery is the price of cowardice and dishonor.

On Flanders' fields, in the Forest of Argonne, at Chateau Thierry, in Belleau Wood, some of these are sleeping in ground that shall be forever holy to Kentucky. Nothing can rob her of the heritage of their deeds. Neither time nor change can dim the records of the lowliest of these who freely offered and as freely gave up life for humanity, for freedom, for peace, for prosperity, for the happiness and lasting well being of their fellows.

Our government has lost no opportunity to give them Christian burial when such was possible; to keep records of their deeds; to mark the spots where they fell and where they rest. But Kentucky now proposes to be one of several states of the Union to give enduring vitality to her testimonial of pride in the courage of her fallen by establishing a new covenant of faith with her dead sons and daughters that shall memorialize them in enduring form and to useful purpose.

To this end it is proposed therefore to erect upon the grounds of the University of Kentucky, a Memorial Building, of dimensions sufficiently ample to house in comfort all the student activities of the institution and to establish in the rotunda, tablets bearing the names of the entire list of her soldiers who made the supreme sacrifice, in the abiding hope that it shall be a source of inspiration and helpfulness to the generations of young Kentuckians who shall, from year to year, seek education and leadership at the Unishrine at which men and women of the state henceforth shall bow in reverence and homage.

It is proposed to supply the funds for the erection of the building by popular subscription, giving to every citizen of Kentucky the opportunity to contribute and to every section of the state a joint ownership in its establishment. In the broadest sense, therefore, it is proposed to make this building a memorial of those Kentuckians living now, to those Kentuckians who are to come after them, the gift of this generation to all succeeding generations of the state.

It is the intention of its promoters that the building shall provide an auditorium large enough to seat large gatherings of students and the public who shall desire to attend lectures, chapel exercises, commencement exercises and entertainments intended to enhance the welfare of the young students of the state's chief institution of learning. It will contain, also, rooms for literary societies, debating clubs, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. organizations, reading rooms, rooms for games and amusements during the leisure hours of the student body, and place at their disposal a building in which these manifold activities may proceed, comfortable and wholesome surroundings.

STRIKING POLICE WON'T BE REINSTATED

(By Associated Press) Boston, Sept. 12.—Applications for reinstatement have been made by a number of strikers; Superintendent of Police Crowley announced today. Governor Coolidge, however, characterized the action of the police as desertion of duty rather than a strike, and asserted he could think of no conditions under which they will be allowed to return to duty. Officers of the union said the organization is gaining members, the total now being 1,385.

State Guards continued in charge of the streets today, aided by volunteer policemen and such members of the regular force, had refused to desert their posts. Little difficulty was experienced in dispersing crowds, except in one or two instances. The death list today as a direct result of the policemen's strike stood at seven. A threat of a sympathetic general strike was held off by the Central Labor Union last night and the situation has assumed a calmer aspect.

Making his only address in the home state of Senator Borah, one of the bitterest opponents of the treaty, the President spoke in a large tent which was not filled. Governor Davis introduced the President while the crowd cheered.

BAR PAYS TRIBUTE TO JUDGE BURNAM

The Richmond bar of which he been a distinguished and honored member for half a century, held memorial services for Judge A. R. Burnam Thursday afternoon. Hon. W. B. Smith, the nestor of the bar, was chairman of the meeting, and E. S. Wiggins, secretary.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Again we are assembled as members of the Richmond Bar to express our deepest sympathy and keenest realization of the loss to this community and Bar occasioned by the removal from our midst to the Great Beyond of one of our oldest and most highly esteemed members, Judge A. R. Burnam.

He was born in Richmond, Ky., on Oct. 10, 1846, endowed with the heritage of being the descendant of an ancestry distinguished for its industry, public spirit, and faithful, honest, capable service wherever duty called, whether it be in County, State or Nation; and of this heritage he had never during his long, active life been found unworthy.

He obtained his education at the "Old Madison Male Seminary," Depauw University, and U. S. Military Academy at West Point, from the latter of which institutions he resigned at the close of his second year for the purpose of studying law in the office of his father, the late Curtis F. Burnam; and at the age of 23 he obtained his license to practice law, which marked the beginning of a public career of which this Bar and Madison county, the chosen place of his life-long home, may ever be justly proud. His success in both private business and public life has been rather singularly conspicuous for the reason that it has been achieved while making the place of his birth his home during his entire life, thus affording a manifestation of the confidence and trust reposed in him by those having the longest and best opportunity for a period of fifty years, to detect any weaknesses of integrity or ability, a circumstance which history does not show to have been attendant in the majority of cases of those men who have attained equal preferment and achievements.

He always, realizing the responsibility of a true citizen, entertained a sincere, active interest in national and state policies of government, and was particularly alive to the vital interests of Kentucky, being ever ready to serve her to fulfill those needs. Thus it was in the prosecution of that high purpose, when a law-maker as a member of the Legislature, that he lent so assiduously, his untiring efforts toward the improvement of the facilities and standard of education in Kentucky to the great gratification of his immediate constituency and benefit of the entire state. But not only was he a law-maker. By reason of his thoroughly equipped mind, resulting from constant and energetic application to the study of his chosen profession, he came to be ranked among the most able lawyers of his state in his construction and practical application of the law; and by his many years of successful practice at this bar has, in a great measure, assisted in placing the Richmond Bar in the position of eminence for which it has been, during many years noted throughout our state. In 1896 he was elected member of the Appellate Court of Kentucky, later becoming Chief Justice. His record while a member of that Court was noteworthy because of his carefully and impartially considered opinions, and elevated him to one of the first positions on the roll of Kentucky's Judiciary. Be it therefore,

Resolved, That we, in common with the whole community, have suffered the loss of one of its most progressive and public spirited citizens whose life has been characterized by frugality, industry and integrity, and faithful, aggressive and able performance of all public and private duties entrusted to him, and whose counsel, influence, and effort have constituted a source of benefit to all his fellow citizens, and a worthy example to be followed by those succeeding him. And

Resolved, That we as lawyers particularly regret his death, as it marks the loss of another one of those distinguished in the profession, who have contributed so largely, in the past and early history of Madison county, to the dignity and distinction of this Bar. And be it further

Resolved that our heart felt sympathies are extended to those bereaved ones to whom he has always been such a kind, dutiful and loving husband, father and brother. And be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread at large upon the records of the Madison Circuit Court, a copy mailed to the Clerk of the Court of Appeals of Kentucky to be recorded in the records of that court, a copy sent to his family, and a copy furnished to each of the Richmond newspapers for publication.

HARRY FRANCIS SELLS FLASHLIGHT FOR $3,500

Another Madison county show horse was sold at a fancy price this week, when Harry Francis, of Paint Lick, sold the crack chestnut mare Flashlight, to Avery S. Coonley, of Chicago, for $3,500. Edgar T. Doty has been showing this beautiful animal at the Kentucky fairs with great success all summer, and he capped the climax by taking several of the principal rings at the State Fair at Louisville with her this week. She attracted the attention of Mr. Coonley, who is said to be a millionaire horse fancier, and he had no hesitation in paying the figure for her that Mr. Francis asked. Flashlight is a five-year-old, and by the great sire Rex Peavine. Her dam is Barelda, by Prince Rupert. She is royally bred.

SIMPLE SERVICES

Mark Last Rites Over Bier of Distinguished Jurist

With bells tolling a requiem, the remains of Judge Anthony Rollins Burnam were taken to Richmond's beautiful cemetery Thursday afternoon, and laid to final rest. Funeral services for the distinguished jurist were held at his home on West Main street. The bier was a veritable mass of blossoms, the last tribute of love and esteem from those among whom he had lived so long, and who knew and honored him highly. Services were conducted at the home by his pastor, Dr. Homer W. Carpenter, pastor of the First Christian church. A passage of Scripture was read, a prayer was made, and a hymn by a choir from his church. The pallbearers were his five sons, Messrs. Curtis, George, A. R. Jr., Lucien and Paul Burnam and Warfield Bennett, a son-in-law. A hymn was sung at the grave, and then a prayer and the simple yet impressive rites over one of Madison's most distinguished sons were concluded.

Woman Not Worried Over Food Shortage

"I have lived on toast and water for over 6 months and have been scarcely able to eat anything for the past year. I began suffering from stomach trouble and bloating 5 years ago. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis.
